

Transcript for Week 1 introduction

(Music & Thunder)

Ok this is week 1, this will be the first of my little introductory videos that I do every week. They are short little things basically giving you an overview of what we will be doing this week and how we are going to do it.

This wee, week 1 is really just settling in. Getting your computer ready, understanding how the course is going to go, how to take a PDF quiz, some of those things. It may be a bit different than some of the online courses you have taken.

I use three distinct methods in teaching. The primary is my website, there are links on the pages and many PDF files you can download and keep on your computer if you so choose. I use Canvas and whatever is on my website is duplicated on Canvas if you choose to do that. I do recommend the website because I can be a bit more creative with the images that way. And the third of course is the Youtube channel and that is where you will find all the lectures.

In your files you will see the Activity Checklist. That is a key document all the videos will be linked there. I use my own videos that those of other people in the teaching OK.

So, it's pretty simple actually, however sometimes those links can get broken or there can be problems. If so, email me and let me know what is going on. You can email me primarily through Canvas or to info@thomhalls.com either way. Questions? Send them along, I will get back to you as fast as I can. I try to make a practice to respond to you very fast on email when I can. Sometimes I just can't get to it.

Also as you know on an online class things can go bump in the night and they don't work right. Again, be patient, we are going to make it through. We'll figure it out together how to do it. Welcome to the journey I think we'll have a good time.
